Taylor Hall

TAYLOR HALL.

Taylor Hall, the central academic building, was begun in the lifetime of the founder of the college, after whom it was named, and was completed by the trustees in 1882. It contains the offices of administration, the assembly-room, ten lecture-rooms, and two interview rooms.

Taylor Hall is open from seven in the morning till six in the evening.

THE LIBRARY.

The library, the gift of the friends, graduates, and students of the college, was begun in April, 1903, and completed in February, 1907. It is built of gray stone in the Jacobean Gothic style of architecture of the period of 1630, and forms three sides of a closed quadrangle. The main building, devoted to the library proper, faces east and is opposite and parallel to Taylor Hall at a distance of about fifty yards; the principal entrances of the two buildings face each other and are connected by a broad cement path. The east front is one hundred and seventy-four feet long and contains a three-story stack with accommodation for eighty-eight thousand volumes, and above this a large reading-room with desks for one hundred and thirty-six readers, each screened to a height of two feet, as in the British Museum reading-room, to secure privacy to the reader. No books of reference are kept in the main reading-room. Beyond the reading-room on the south side are the newspaper and magazine rooms. On the north side are the art and archæological seminaries, containing collections of photographs, vases, and coins. The main building contains offices for the librarians and cataloguers, a professor's office, a study room for the non-resident students, and four cloak rooms. The wings of the building, running symmetrically about two hundred feet in length from the north and south ends of the main building, contain twelve seminary rooms and twenty-five professors' offices. The books needed for graduate study and research are kept in the seminary rooms and graduate lectures are held in them. The seminaries are arranged as follows: Greek, Latin, English, German, French, Italian and Spanish, and Philosophy in the north wing; Mathematics, History, Economics, and Psychology in the south wing; Semitic Languages in the main building. The total book capacity of the library, including the seminary libraries and the books for general study which are kept in the stack, is 168,449 volumes. The building is absolutely fire-proof. Professors' offices for the senior professors in each department adjoin the seminary rooms. There are also two seminary lecture-rooms accommodating about fifteen students, one general lecture-room accommodating forty-two students, four interview rooms, and a library for the use of the Christian Union.

On the first floor of the south wing the department of experimental psychology has two large laboratories, one for general work and one for research. The basement of the north wing contains rooms for the Monograph Committee of the Faculty, the Alumnæ Association, the Students' Association for Self-Government, and fire-proof safe rooms for the records and archives of the college. The quadrangular court enclosed by the building is surrounded by cloisters and in the centre of the grass enclosure is a fountain, the gift of the class of 1901.

The library is open for students on week-days from 8 a. m. till 10 p. m. and on Sundays from 2 p. m. till 10 p. m. It is open for the faculty at all hours of the day and night.

BASEMENT PLAN

DALTON HALL.

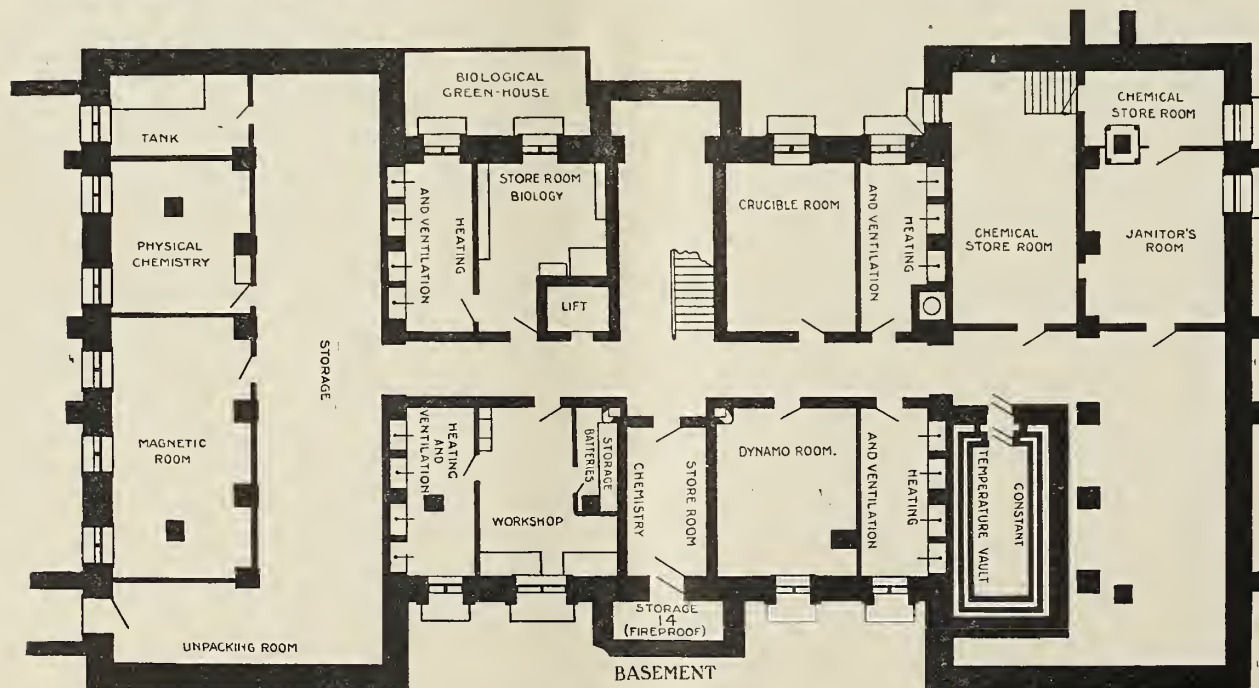

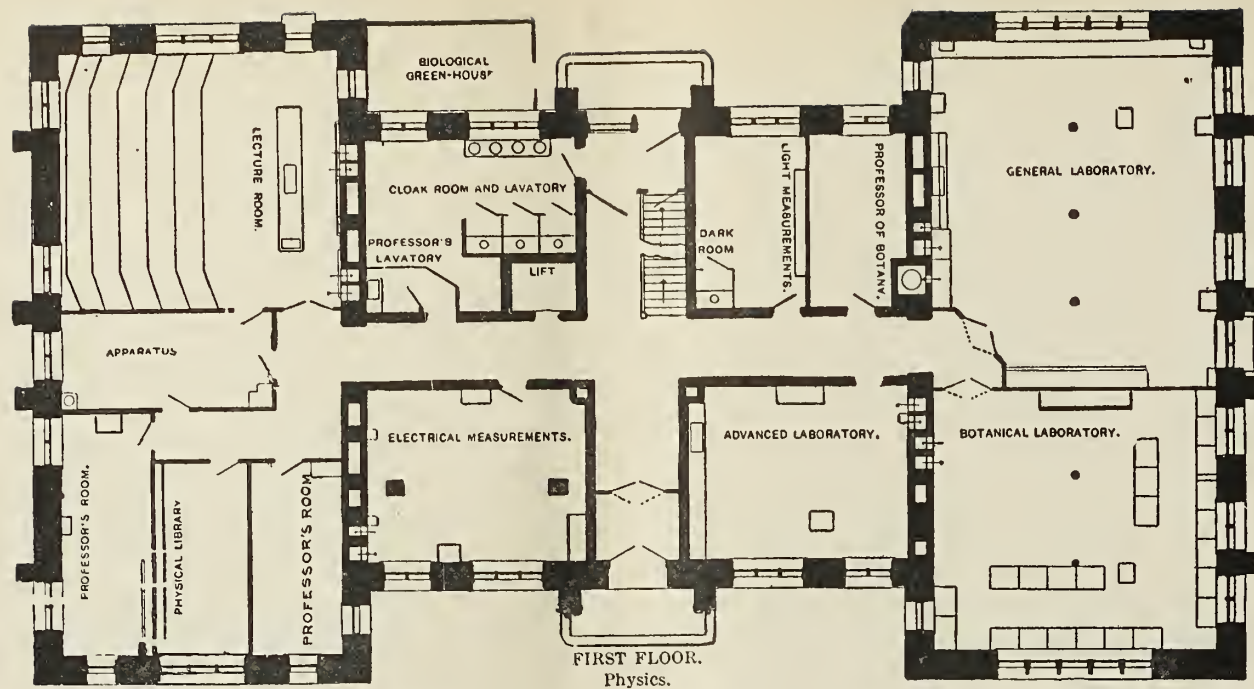

In January, 1893, the scientific departments of the college were transferred to Dalton Hall, a stone building erected by the trustees out of funds in large part contributed by the generosity of friends of the college. Dalton Hall is entirely occupied by the scientific departments, the special scientific libraries, and the consultation-rooms of the professors of science. The first floor and the basement are occupied by physics, the second floor by biology, the third floor by chemistry, and the fourth and fifth floors by geology. In December, 1893, a greenhouse designed for the use of the botanical department was added to Dalton Hall as the gift of the alumnæ and students.

Dalton Hall is open for students on week-days from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., and for the faculty at all hours of the day and night.

GYMNASIUM.

The new gymnasium, erected on the site of the first gymnasium built in 1884, before the opening of the college, is the gift of the undergraduate students assisted by twelve friends and neighbors of the college.

In the spring of 1908 the Students' Athletic Association raised $21,000, and thirteen subscriptions of $1,000 each were given through the President of the College to enable the students to complete the total subscription of $34,000 necessary to rebuild the gymnasium, as follows:—the late Mr. John H. Converse, Mr. Samuel M. Vauclain, Mr. Justus C. Strawbridge, Mr. Charles E. Pugh, Mr. William L. Austin, Mr. Alba B. Johnson, the late Mr. James W. Paul, Jr., the late Mr. Francis L. Potts and Mrs. Potts, Dr. John P. Munn (for Miss Aristine Munn of the class of 1909), the late Mr. William P. Henszey and Mrs. Henszey, Mr. Joseph N. Pew, Mr. Justus C. Strawbridge (a second subscription), and Mr. Henry H. Collins.

The old gymnasium was planned for only 100 students and had become totally inadequate for the needs of over 400 students. It was built of red brick in an architectural style out of accord with the later college buildings.

The new gymnasium, which was finished on December first, 1908, has been designed by the architects, Mr. Lockwood de Forest and Mr. Winsor Soule, in the collegiate Gothic style of the other buildings. It is built of native gray stone with limestone trimmings, and is entered from the campus through an entrance tower flanked by four turrets.

The dimensions of the main exercising room are 90 feet by 50 feet by 22 feet, and are large enough for a gymnastic class of 100 students and for indoor tennis and basket-ball. The new running track is six feet in width, instead of four feet as formerly, and conforms to modern requirements. The swimming tank, which is preserved from the former building, is adequately lighted through windows along its entire length and properly ventilated, the supply of air being changed every ten minutes. There are cloak rooms and waiting rooms of ample size. A double staircase ascends through the tower to a roof garden, 90 feet by 50 feet, which may be used for class suppers and other purposes. There are a number of exits in case of fire. In addition to the large entrance hall and stairway, double doors open at the rear of the main room onto the back road; iron stairways connect the running track and main room with the basement where there is another large doorway. The running track opens through two doors onto the low roofs on either side of the entrance tower.

HALLS OF RESIDENCE.

MERION HALL, RADNOR HALL, DENBIGH HALL, PEMBROKE HALL EAST, PEMBROKE HALL WEST, ROCKEFELLER HALL.

The six halls of residence provide accommodation for 387 students. Each hall is under the charge of a resident warden who is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College. The management and table are as far as possible the same. The buildings are built of stone and contain single rooms, suites of three rooms to be occupied by two students, and suites of two rooms to be occupied by one student. Every student has a separate bedroom.

Students are expected to provide their own rugs and towels, but in every other respect the rooms are completely furnished. There is provided for each student, in addition to the usual bedroom furniture, a bookcase, a study table, an arm-chair, and an electric reading lamp. In Rockefeller Hall there are stationary washstands with hot and cold water in every bedroom. There are open fire-places in most of the studies and in many single rooms, but the rooms are sufficiently heated by currents of air passing over steam-heated pipes; the air is changed every ten minutes and the temperature is regulated by a thermostat in each room. Electric light is introduced into every room.

The charge for board for all students is $200 a year. The charge for rooms is $75 a year for graduate students and $100* a year, $125, and upwards for undergraduate students.

These charges for board and residence do not include the fee for tuition, which is $200 a year for undergraduate, and $125 a year for graduate students.

The entire cost of tuition, board, and residence in any hall, is therefore $500 a year, $525 and upwards, for undergraduate students according to the room occupied, and $400 a year for graduate students. This payment includes all expenses of furnishing, service, light, and heating, except open fires. No part whatever need be taken by the students in the care of their own rooms. The students' personal washing will be done by any laundry approved by the college, for fifty cents a dozen or about $8.00 a half-year for one dozen pieces weekly. Accommodation is provided for students wishing to remain in residence during the Christmas and Easter vacations at $8.75 a week for graduate and $10.50 a week for undergraduate students.

The room-rent and the fee for tuition must be paid in advance at the beginning of each academic year. Half the charge for board must be paid in advance at the beginning of each semester. The charges for tuition and room-rent are not subject to return or deduction under any circumstances; in case of prolonged illness and absence from the college extending over six weeks or more, there is a proportionate reduction in the charge for board.

The health of the students is under the care of Dr. Anne Heath Thomas, a physician practising in Philadelphia, who spends two hours at the college every day, and may then be consulted by the students free of charge, and Dr. Thomas F. Branson, of Rosemont, Attending Physician of the College. In infectious diseases and all minor illnesses, a student is not nursed in her own room, but is removed to the infirmary, and cared for by a trained nurse without additional charge; for all students in residence there is a fixed charge of $5.00 a year, payable in advance, for the support of the college infirmary and the payment of trained nurses.

As the demand for rooms is very great, application should be made as long as possible in advance. Plans of the buildings with prices of rooms may be found under the description of each hall.

Every application for a room or set of rooms to be reserved, whether made by a student already in residence or by a candidate for admission to the college, must be accompanied by a deposit of fifteen dollars, otherwise the application is not registered. The amount of this deposit is deducted from the rent if the room or set of rooms assigned is occupied by the applicant. The amount of this deposit will be refunded in the following cases:

*In about one-sixth of the college rooms the rent is $100, making the cost of board, residence, and tuition for undergraduate students $500; but students desiring to apply for rooms at $100 must file a statement in the president's office that they are unable to afford rooms at a higher price.

(a) If an applicant who is a student of the college gives formal notice to the Secretary of the College before the first of May preceding the academic year for which the application is made that she wishes to withdraw her application.

(b) If a candidate who has applied for admission to the College in October gives formal notice to the Secretary of the College before the fifteenth of July preceding the academic year for which the application is made that she wishes to withdraw her application.

(c) If a candidate who has applied for admission to the College in February gives formal notice to the Secretary of the College before the first of December preceding the semester for which the application is made that she wishes to withdraw her application.

In all other cases the deposit will be forfeited to the college.

Every applicant giving up later than the first of September the room or suite of rooms assigned to her for the ensuing academic year is responsible for the rent thereof for the whole year; exception will be made only in the case of applicants that take and fail to pass the autumn examinations for matriculation, but even in such case the deposit cannot be refunded. Every applicant for a room in February will be responsible for the rent of the room or suite of rooms assigned to her for one semester, unless she gives formal notice of withdrawal to the Secretary before the first of January. The charges for room-rent are not subject to remission or deduction under any circumstances, being considered forfeit in case of withdrawal for any cause whatever. The applicant is not entitled to relet the rooms thus left vacant, but this right the College reserves to itself. No refund will be made to the applicant in case the room or suite of rooms thus left vacant are relet by the College. Any student who changes her room is required to pay an extra fee of $15.00.

The basement of Rockefeller Hall contains a luncheon-room for non-resident students, a sewing-room with accommodation for two seamstresses, a hair-dressing room, and the college bookshop.

In the basement of Pembroke East are music-rooms with sound-proof walls and ceilings. A charge of twelve dollars a year is made for the use of a piano for an hour a day throughout the college year.

In all the halls there are tea pantries fitted with gas stoves where the students may make tea and cook in chafing dishes.

Special wings or corridors are reserved for graduate students, and in Denbigh Hall a clubroom is provided for the use of the members of the Graduate Club.

The Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company, a branch of the long-distance Bell Telephone Company, maintains telephone pay stations in each of the halls of residence, the library, and the gymnasium, by means of which the students may be communicated with at any time. Near the college are a Postal Telegraph-Cable Company office (service 6 a. m. to 12 p. m.), an Adams Express office, a United States money-order office, and two banks.

POWER HOUSE.

A central power-house, which was erected in 1903 as part of the gift of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, furnishes heat, electric light, and hot water for all the college buildings. Steam is conducted through tunnels underground to coils in the basements of each building. Air brought in from the outside is blown through the heaters by powerful fans and distributed to the various rooms, and the system is so adjusted as to change the air completely in every room once in every ten minutes throughout the day and night. The temperature is regulated by thermostats in the heating coils as well as in the individual rooms. The electric lights, including electric reading-lamps for each student, are installed in the most approved manner and the voltage is kept constant so that there is no fluctuation. A constant and abundant supply of hot water is laid on and maintained at a temperature of 180 degrees during the twenty-four hours of the day and night, in all the bath-rooms, stationary washstands, and tea pantries.

MERION HALL.

Merion Hall was the first hall of residence opened, and was completed in 1885; it is built of Fairmount stone, has its separate kitchens and dining hall, provides accommodation for fifty-one students, and is under the charge of a resident warden, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, Miss Ethel Harper. It contains a drawing-room, a students' sitting-room, a warden's suite, two doctor's offices, seventeen sets of two bedrooms and a study to be occupied by two students; fourteen single rooms; and three rooms of exceptional size.

PEMBROKE HALL.

Pembroke Hall West and Pembroke Hall East were the fourth and fifth in order of opening, of the halls of residence of Bryn Mawr College. Like the other halls they are built of gray stone. The central tower, containing the dining hall, kitchens, and servants' quarters common to both halls, forms the main carriage entrance of the college. Pembroke West, which was opened in February, 1894, provides accommodation for sixty-six students. Pembroke East, which was opened in the autumn of 1894, provides accommodation for sixty-nine students. Both halls are under the charge of a resident warden, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, Miss Martha Gibbons Thomas.
